

Abstract

To provide a tin-silver based lead-free solder which can improve joint strength in the initial stage, and can curtail a decrease in joint strength after heat treatment, at a joined interface with an electroless plating, zinc (Zn) is added to a solder comprising a tin-silver system containing no lead.
